Paper – IV

Legal Education and Research Methodology

Objective of the Course :

A Post-graduate student of Law should get an insight into the objectives of legal education. He should have an exposure to programmes like organizations of seminars, publication of Law Journals and holding of legal aid clinics.

Law is taught in different ways in different countries. The LL.M. course, being intended also to produce lawyers with better competence and expertise, it is imperative that the student should familiarize himself along with the different systems of legal education. The lecture method both at LL.B. level and LL.M. level has many demerits. The existing lacunae can be eliminated by following other methods of learning such as case methods, discussion method, problem seminar method and combination of all methods.

The student has to be exposed to those methods so as to develop his skills. Growth of legal science in India depends on the nature and career of legal research. The syllabus is also designed to develop skills in research and writing in a systematic manner.

 - a. Computerized Research : A study of legal research programmes such as lexis and West law coding
 - b. Classification and Tabulation of Data : use of cards for data collection, Rules for tabulation, Explanation of tabulated data
 - c. Analysis of Data – Qualitative and Quantitative
5. Report writing

Branch-I :

International Law and Organization

Objectives of the course

The years following the Second World War have witness a phenomenal growth of international organizations. The United Nations has become increasingly complex in its functioning, and the range of its activities has widened beyond manageable proportions. It has therefore become imperative to understand the modes of operation of the numerous organs and agencies of the U.N. system, the decision-making pattern, financing and accountability. The interactions between the members and the Organisation over the years to cope up with their numerous responsibilities have been handicapped with non-availability of funds and non-co-operation of the certain members.

In order to give students an in-depth understanding, it would be useful to conduct intensive studies of some agencies such as the UNDF and the FAO. There have also come into existence well known non-governmental organizations whose expertise is made use of by various UN Agencies in the capacity of consultants. The role played by such NGOs would also be assessed in the light of the objectives of the organization.

The course will explore the areas of co-operation in international relations which are likely to bring about cohesion and integration, and assess the role of international organization in fostering change. It will also provide an opportunity for understanding the major issues of law and policy which are presently being faced by international organizations.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one year.

Paper – I

Paper – II

Disarmament and Peace Strategies

Objectives of the course

Disarmament has been a major issue in international relations for creating conditions of peace. The mad race for conventional and nuclear arms among the super powers has been going on unabated. Even the newly emergent poor nations have found it essential to divert their resources for the acquisition of sophisticated arms and upkeep of military hardware.

Developed nations with nuclear capabilities are spending billions of dollars for creating balance of terror. These nations are the most important source for the supply of arms to developing nations. The implications of transfer of technology are grave and need a thorough understanding of the issues involved. The ownership patterns for mass production of armaments need a close scrutiny and the methods used by giant manufacturers of sophisticated armaments to push sales have recently come under severe attack. These have a direct bearing on national policies for production and sale of armaments.

Nations individually and collectively have been involved in devising methods for disarmament and non-proliferation of nuclear weapons. The UN has been fully absorbed for the last several decades in initiating dialogues on disarmament. In the course of years the impediments which stand in the way of arriving at an international understanding have been laid bear.

The course will explore the alternative strategies for creating conditions of peace. This would involve a critical examination of dispute resolution and crisis management techniques, equitable allocation of worlds resources and economic development of less developed countries.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one year.

1. Concept of Disarmament
 - a. Meaning and changing concept
 - b. Disarmament and world security, military alliances arms trade
2. Arms Race : Reasons, Consequences specially in terms of resource economic development and its International implications.
3. United Nations Disarmament : History, its achievements and limitations, Negotiations leading to the signing of SALT I and SALT II
4. Nuclear Disarmament : Problems and Perspectives : Nuclear Non-Proliferation treaty & Intermediate range missile Treaty, International Regulation of nuclear weapons.
5. International Regulations : Biological and chemical or weapons of Mass Destruction ; Control of Militarization of Outer Space and the Ocean Bed.
6. Conserving the world's resources : peace research and its significance ; Protection of Human Rights Assisting the economic development of less developed countries; Towards a balanced world Trade; Peaceful settlement of International Disputes.

Paper – III
International Humanitarian Law

Objectives of the course

International Law has traditionally been a law which regulates relations among states. Individuals have been objects and not subjects of International Law. A logical extension of these principles led to the theory that international law could not confer rights nor impose duties on individuals. What it could do was to appeal to conscience of the nations that unnecessary suffering of human being should be avoided. In view of territorial and personal character of sovereignty of a state, treatment of its own nationals and stateless persons, subject to limited exceptions remained under the exclusive jurisdiction of a state. Although this unsatisfactory state of law was hardly adequate to prevent ill-treatment of individuals, particularly during war, it became the starting point for a new branch of international law towards the end of the last century.

The total character of modern war and threat of annihilation due to use of nuclear weapons have been responsible for a new concern for survival of humanity. To meet this challenge the United Nations and other voluntary international agencies have been actively involved in prescribing standards of treatment based upon dictates of humanity and overseeing their implementation in difficult situations. The underlying purpose is to ensure a human treatment of all individuals, a minimum standard of treatment which may not be departed from even under the necessities of war or grave provocation.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one year.

1. International Movement : History and various conventions : Contributions of classical writers; history of the Red Cross; Geneva conventions of 1864 for Amelioration of the Condition of wounded Soldiers in Land Army, St. Petersburg Declaration, 1868. 2. International Efforts : Salve Trade and Similar Practices; Forced Labour and Trafficking in human beings.
3. United Nations and Humanitarian Law : Role of ECOSOC and ILO; Genocide Convention.
4. International Refugees : Organization and various related conventions.
5. Right of Self-determination : Implementation and declaration after independence to colonial countries.
6. Discrimination Against Women : International co-operation.

Paper IV

International Law : Diplomacy and Contemporary Issues

Objectives of the course

The importance of diplomacy in international relations cannot be underestimated. Even before and after the emergence of the modern state system and the generally agreed rules of international law, diplomacy has been the most outstanding means for influencing decisions relating to maintenance of international law.

The course will dwell on structural inequalities and geopolitical realities which shape national policies. The role of diplomacy from ancient to modern times will be assessed and salient features of the 'new diplomacy highlighted. Momentous developments in technology giving rise to arms race and military alliances have in no small measure been responsible for utilizing new strategies by powerful states to control foreign policies of nations.

In this connection it will be necessary to understand the conduct of diplomacy in the various forums of the United Nations. Inasmuch as delegations of all the members remain more or less present throughout the year at the United Nations Headquarters, it becomes relatively easy to handle some difficult situations. To provide an insight of the subject, the use of diplomacy in crisis management in contemporary international society will be discussed.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will be spread over a period of one year.

1. Contemporary International system : International stratifications and geopolitical considerations .
2. Beginning of diplomacy : Various Diplomatic Traditions, Golden age of classical diplomacy of 18th & 19th centuries in Europe.
3. Impact of the first world war and the Russian Revolution : Transition from "Old" to "New" diplomacy; Technology on conduct of diplomacy; Nuclear weapons; Military Alliance; Secret v. Open Diplomacy, Democratic control of Foreign Policy.
4. Diplomacy in contemporary World : Cold War and its impact; summit; U.N.; Mass Media and propaganda.
5. Crisis Management : Diplomacy new human rights conceptions; diplomacy and right to development, The Stockhom Declaration on Environment.

Paper – V
Law of the Sea

Objectives of the course

There have been momentous changes in the law of the sea for the last fifty years. An almost settled branch of international law has been reopened in response to the needs of the international community to appropriate limitless resources of the sea for common good. Although the importance of sea as a means of communications has lessened in recent years, new scientific and technological developments have brought to the fore the need of devising an equitable system for the distribution of vast living and non-living resources of the sea. The problems of conservation of vast living and non-living resources are complex. States have been using the sea rather recklessly with the result that there is the danger of pollution and consequent loss of animal life and contamination of the environment.

The course on the Law of the sea will, therefore, focus attention on resources of sea as common heritage of mankind. It will necessitate examinations of policy goals of various uses of the sea in the context of dwindling resources on the landmass. It will address itself to problems of conservation, pollution and equitable distribution of resources of the sea-to-sea to nations, large and small, with a seacoast or landlocked.

1. Historical Introduction : Contributions of Seldon, Groves, Bynkershock and others; to development of the early law; the Anglo Norwegian Fishers Case and its aftermath; the technological revolution and the utilization of the new resources of the sea; population explosion and its impact on the law, the U.N. conference on the law of the sea; Developing nations and the uses of the sea. New resources of the sea and its impact on the Law.
2. Changing Concepts of Maritime Frontiers : territorial waters and contiguous zone, continental shelf; Rights of States over, exclusive economic zone. Principles for determination of maritime frontiers and maritime boundaries under the customary and Conventional law.
3. Exploitation of Deep Sea – Bed Resources : International Sea Bed authority, its functions and powers; Decision making; settlement of disputes, principles governing joint ventures; transfer of data and training of personnel of the authority problems and perspectives.
4. Conservation of living Resources: Problems of Maritime Pollution.
5. Land Locked states and sea as common heritage of mankind : the future of the Law of the Sea
6. International Sea tribunal to settle Disputes.

Branch – II : Criminal Law

Objectives of the course

Criminal Procedure is being taught as a compulsory paper at the level of LLB. today. However, a jurisprudential thrust has to be given to this subject at the post-graduate level as this is a subject which has constitutional undertones and jurisprudential importance. A study of comparative criminal procedure helps students to develop an ecumenical approach and broadens their vision. It inspires them to renew and revise their laws to be in tune with developed systems. The paper is taught with reference to India, England, France and China

Paper – II

This course offers a specialist understanding of criminal policies including theories of punishment, their supposed philosophical and sociological justifications and the problematic of discretion in the sentencing experience of the developing societies, a focus normally absent in law curricula so far. The expert work of the U.N. Committee on Crime Prevention and Treatment of Offenders will be availed of in this course. Especially, at each stage, the three D's will be explored as offering a range of alternatives: decriminalisation, depenalization, deinstitutionalization. Broadly, the course will concern itself with:

- (a) Theories of Punishment
- (b) Approaches to Sentencing
- (c) Alternatives to Imprisonment
- (d) The State of Institutional Incarceration in India: Jails and other custodial institutions
- (e) The problematic of Capital Punishment
- (f) Penology in relation to privileged class deviance
- (g) Penology in relation to marginalized deviance or criminality
- (h) The distinctive Indian (historical and contemporary) approaches to penology

Penology and Victimology

1. Penology and Theories of Punishment
 - a. Definition of Penology
 - b. Theories of Punishment : Retribution, Utilitarian Prevention-Deference, Utilitarian : Intimidation, Behavioural Prevention : Incapacitation, Rehabilitation, Expiation
 - c. Classical Hindu and Islamic approaches to Punishment

- d. Capital Punishment – Its Constitutionality, Problems related to capital punishment, Judicial attitude in India towards Capital punishment- An inquiry through the statute Law and case law.
 - e. Law Reforms Proposals
 - 2. Approaches to sentencing
 - a. Alternatives to Imprisonment, Probation
 - b. Corrective labour
 - c. Fine ; Collective fines
 - d. Reparation by the offender/by the court

Paper – III

Drug Addiction & Juvenile Delinquency

Almost all the major dilemmas of criminal policy surface rather acutely in combating drug addiction and trafficking through the legal order. The issue of interaction between drug abuse and criminality is quite complex. At least three important questions have been recently identified as crucial for comparative research. First, to what extent drug dependence contributes to criminal behaviour? Second, in what ways do criminal behaviour patterns determine drug abuse? Third, are there any common factors which contribute to the determination of both drug abuse and criminal behaviour?

Apart from these causal issues, there is the broad questions of the social costs-benefits of criminalization of addictive behaviour. Should drug-taking remain in the category of crime without victims?" Or should it be viewed as posing an ever-growing threat to human resource development and be subjected to state control, over individual choices as to survival and life-styles?

The problems here are not merely ideological or theoretical. User of drugs for personal, non- therapeutic purposes may well be linked with international trafficking in psychotropic substance. It has even been suggested that encouragement of drug-dependency may have, in addition to motivation of high profits, politically subversive aspects.

Assuming that both addiction and trafficking have to be regulated, what penal policies should be appropriate? What human rights costs in the administration of criminal justice should be considered acceptable? The international response to these questions is indicated by the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, 1961, adopted in New York, 30 March 1961 and as amended by 1972 Protocol in Geneva, 25 March, 1972 and the Convention on Psychotropic substances, adopted in Vienna, 21 February 1971. India has recently adopted the basic principles of these conventions in the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1986

Broadly, penal policy dilemmas here relate to: (a) management of sanctions relating to production, distribution and illicit commerce in Narcotic Substances and, (b) ways of prevention of abuse of drugs, including speedy diagnosis, treatment, correction, aftercare, rehabilitation, and realization of persons affected.

Paper IV

Privileged Class Deviance

This course focuses on the “Criminality of the “Privileged classes”. The definition of “privileged classes” in a society like India should not pose major problem at all; the expression nearly includes wielders of all forms of state and social (including religious) power. Accordingly, the course focusses on the relation between privilege power and deviant behaviour. The traditional approaches which highlight “white-collar offences”, “socio-economic offences” or “crimes of the powerful” deal mainly with the deviance of the economically resourceful. The dimension of deviance associated with bureaucracy, the new rich (nouveau riche), religious leaders and organizations, professional classes and the higher bourgeoisie are not fully captured here. In designing teaching materials for this course, current developments in deviance, as reflected in newspapers/journals, law reports, and legislative proceedings should be highlighted.

It should be stressed that the objectives of the course include:

- (a) Dispelling of the commonly held belief that deviance crime is usually associated with the impoverished or improvident;
- (b) Construction of model so understanding the reality of middle and upper; middle class deviance criminality in India;
- (c) Critical analyses of legal system responses and
- (d) Issues and dilemmas in penal and sentencing policies.

Syllabus

1. Conceptions of whitecollar crimes and class deviance
 - a. Indian approaches to socio economic offences.
 - b. Conception of white collar crime; notions of privileged class deviance as providing a wider categorization of understanding Indian development.
 - c. Typical forms of deviance : Official deviance (by legislators, judges/ bureaucrats); Professional deviance (journalists, doctors, teachers, lawyers, engineers, architects, publishers); Trade Union deviance (including lawyers, urban property owners); Landlord deviance (class/caste based deviance); Police deviance; Deviance on electoral process (rigging, booth capturing, impersonation, corrupt practices).
 - d. Gender-based aggression by socially, economically and politically powerful
2. Official Deviance
 - a. Concept of Official deviance : permissible limit of discretionary power.
 - b. The Chambal valley dacoit, Vinoba Mission and Jai Prakash Narain Mission – in 1959 and 1971
 - c. The Chagla Commission Report on LIC- Mundhra Affair; The Das Commission Report on Pratap Singh Kairon
 - d. The Grover Commission Report on Dev Raj Urs; The Maruti Commission Report; the Ibakkar Natarajan Commission Report on Fair fax.

3. Police Deviance and professional Deviance
 - a. Structures of legal restraint on police powers in India; unconstitutionality of third degree methods and use of fatal force by police.
 - b. Police atrocities; encounter killings; plea of superior order; Rape and related forms of gender based aggression by police and para military forces.
 - c. Reform suggestions especially by National Police Commission.
 - d. Unethical practices at the Indian Bar; Medical malpractice.
 - e. The Lentin Commission Report; the press council on unprofessional and unethical journalism.
4. Response of Indian legal Order to the Deviance of Privileged Classes
 - a. Vigilance Commission;
 - b. Public Accounts Committee
 - c. Ombudsman; Commissions of Enquiry
 - d. Prevention of corruption Act, 1947
 - e. The Antulay Case

Paper – V Collective Violence

Objectives of the course

This is a crucial area of Indian development with which traditional, western, criminology is not overly preoccupied. Collective political violence (CPV) is the order of the day, whether it is agrarian (feudal) violence, or it is atrocities against untouchables, communal riots, electoral violence, police violence (encounters), political violence by militant and extremist groups, gender-based violence or violence involved in mercenary terrorism and its containment.

It is not very helpful in such contexts, to mouth the generalities such as 'criminalization' or 'lumpenization' of Indian politics. Closer scientific investigation of these phenomena is crucial, which should help us understand both the aetiology and the prognosis of CPV. Instead of political analysis the course should focus on a broader social understanding of the political economy of law in India. Each specific form of violence will be examined with a view to identifying the course of its evolution, the state-law response policies of management of sanctions, compensation and rehabilitation of victims of violence, social and political costs. The growth of police and paramilitary forces will also, in this context, be an object of study. Primary materials here will be governmental and citizen investigative reports. The emphasis of the course will be on fashioning overall democratic understanding and responses to meet this problem.

Syllabus

1. Notions and their understanding
 - a. Notions of force, coercion, violence
 - b. Distinctions between “ symbolic, institutionalized and structural violence
 - c. Legal order as a coercive normative order; Force-monopoly of modern Law

Paper - II

Legal Regulation of Economic Enterprises Including Export and Import Regulation

Objective of the course :

After independence we have placed greater emphasis on the growth of our economy. The focus is on growth, both in public and private sectors, so as to cope up with the problems of population explosion. We have found that there is now almost a circle from laissez faire to welfare state and again back to laissez faire. Adoption of the concept of global economy in the presence of the socialistic perspectives in the Constitution presents a dilemma. The trends of liberalization starting in the early nineties and continuing to this day bring a shift in focus of regulation in diverse fields of economic activities.

The need for accelerating the export trade of India's developing economy can hardly be over emphasised. Export earnings enable a developing country to finance its massive requirements of growth, to maintain its essential imports and thereby stimulate the process of its economic developments. In the words of Prof. V.K. R.V. Rao: "In fact, expansion of exports may well be described as an integral part of the development process, neglect of which can only be at the peril of development itself’.

Increasing exports have been necessitated to meet the growing needs of defence. India is a country rich in natural resources. One of the approaches to combat its economic backwardness could be in large-scale production and in maximization of its exports.

Import and export of goods and raw materials is a complex, complicated and intricate activity, It involves elaborate economic, fiscal, budgetary and monetary policy considerations. Export and Import control policy is also closely connected with country’s balance of payment position.

The detailed procedures for imports and exports are provided in the Hand Book. The Union Government used to declare its import and export policy for a three-year period. At present they declare the policy for five years. The controls on exports and imports are closely connected with the Foreign Trade Regulation Act 1992.

1. The Rationale of Government Regulation:

Constitutional Perspectives, The New economic policy – Industrial policy resolutions, declarations and statements, the place of public, small scale, co operative, corporate, private and joint sectors in the changing context, Regulation of economic activities, Disclosure of information, Fairness in competition, Emphasis on consumerism

2. Development and Regulation of Industries

Take over of Management and Control of industrial Units, Sick Undertakings : Nationalisation or Winding up, Licensing Policy and Legal Process – Growing Trends of Liberalization , Deregulation of essential commodities : developmental sign or a social mishap, Financial Services : Changing Techniques of Regulation

3. Critical Issues Regarding the Capital Issues : Equity and debt finance; global, depositories and dematerialised securities.

4. Problems of Control and Accountability : Regulation of Hazardous Activity : Mass disaster and environmental degradation : legal liability and legal remedies; Public Liability Insurance : adequacy; Issues in zoning and location of industrial units.

5. Legal Regulation of Multi Nationals

- a. Collaboration agreements for technology transfer

Banking law

Objectives of the course

A vitally important economic institution the banking system is deeply influenced by socio-political and economic changes. The emerging changes in India, particularly after the initiation of the planning process as an instrument of rapid economic development had moulded and affected the banking structure, policies, patterns and practices. A significant development in the banking system is diversification in banks financing. The commercial banks entered 'into the field of wide ranging financial assistance to industry, both large and small scale, requiring the need for social control of the banking system eventually leading to the nationalisation of banks.

The conventional banking system, found to be deficient for planned developmental purposes, paved the way for developmental banking. The fag end of the last millennium witnesses influx of foreign banking companies into India and a shift in the banking policy as part of the global phenomenon of liberalisation. The legal system is adopting itself into the new mores.

This course is designed to acquaint the students with the conceptual and operational parameters of banking law, the judicial interpretation and the new and emerging dimensions of the banking system.

Insurance Law

As early as in 1601 one finds an excellent exposition of the insurance idea expressed in these words of an Act of British Parliament the loss lighteth rather easily, upon many than heavily upon few. The insured person transfers from his own shoulders to the insurers, who, in return for agreeing to assume a potential risk of loss receive a payment known as premium. The insurers rely on the probability that only some of the losses, they insure against will in fact occur within any given period. They calculate, therefore, that they will be left with a profit. The insurer, on the other hand, is better able to risk his capital in trade since he knows that certain events which he cannot control, such as fire, shipwreck, will not cause him to lose his investment.

The insurance idea is an old-institution of transactional trade. The age old form of insurance was the marine insurance. There is nothing like disaster to set men's minds to work. Consequently, in due course of time fire and life insurance, made their appearance. Within the last hundred years the insurance principle is being extended wider. Today one finds insurance cover for accidents, motor vehicles, glass, live stock, crop, burglary and various other disasters.

Insurance is a device not to avert risks, calamities and disasters; but to mitigate their rigours and financial losses. The function of insurance is to spread such loss arising from risks of life over a large number of persons

The Operational framework of insurance idea is provided by the general principles of contract. The insurance policy, being a contract, is subject to all the judicial interpretative techniques. Besides, the insurance idea has a compensatory justice component. This brings it in the arena of the law of tort as well. It is even suggested that a fully grown and developed law of insurance may, if not totally displace, decrease the significance of the law of tort.

This course is designed to acquaint the students with the conceptual and operational parameters of insurance law in the context of the development of the general principles of law and judicial interpretation to inform the students about the use of law for the establishment of just order in insurance and to develop the appreciative and evaluative faculties of the students.

Corporate Finance

Industrialisation has played, and has to play, a very vital role in the economic development of India. In the post independent era, industrial development is regarded, and hence employed, as principal means in the strategy for achieving the goal of economic and social justice envisioned in the Constitution. Corporations, both public and private, are viewed as a powerful instrument for development. In a developing society like India enormous varieties of consumer goods are manufactured or produced. Obviously, the situation raises the issues of procuring, utilising and managing the finances. For this purpose a science of financial management techniques has been evolved. The faculties of commerce, business and management studies have since last decades started to impart instruction so as to turn out sufficiently well equipped and adequately trained financial personnel. However, the legal and juristic aspects of corporate finance have been more or less not effectively taken care of. In view of the above perspectives the broad objectives of this cause may be formulated as follows :

- (i) To understand the economic and legal dimensions of corporate finance in the process of industrial development in establishing social order in the context of constitutional values
- (ii) To acquaint the students with the normative, philosophical and economic contours of various statutory rules relating to corporate finance
- (iii) To acquaint the students with the organisation, functions, lending, and recovery procedures, conditions of lending and accountability of international, national and state financing institutions and also of commercial banks; and
- (iv) To acquaint the students with the process of the flow and outflow of corporate finance.

Branch – IV : Human Rights Law

Objectives of the course

Protection of Human Rights(HR) became an important issue after the second world war and after the acceptance of Universal Declaration of Human Rights. The growth of HR Law and jurisprudence thereafter was spontaneous and continuous. The changes in the global scenario bring new concept of HR protection against violation . In one sense, HR can be said as the rights which the nature has endowed with human beings. However, they are not mere privileges given to the subjects by the ruler but are liberties permitted to the citizens in a democracy. Manifestly a law that violates human rights is no law at all. Probably this perspective may give an impression that human rights are not different from natural rights envisaged by the natural law school.

Although Indian polity waited for more than one score and five years for adoption of Fundamental Duties in the Constitution, it is beyond doubt that every human being has responsibilities and obligation not only towards the other fellow beings, but also towards the society at large. Only when a society is aware of this right-duty relationship can there be any meaning to human rights.

This course is intended to highlight the concept of human rights, their evolution and their importance in our society now particularly in the era of privatisation, globalisation and liberalisation.

Paper – II

Human Rights in International and Regional Perspective

Objectives of the course

Human rights have universal application. They gathered importance when the United Nations adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1948. The role of international organisations in promoting awareness of human rights is very significant. The international conventions, though not binding, have persuasive force since the violations will be decried by the international community. International Non-Governmental Organisations watch and monitor human rights violations in every country. However, in the absence of national legislation, the enforcement of the rights will be difficult.

1. Development of the Concept of Human Rights Under International Law
 - a. Role of International Organization and Human Rights
 - b. Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948)
 - c. Covenant of Political and Civil Rights (1966)
 - d. Covenant of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (1966)

Human Rights : Enforcement Mechanism

Objectives of the course

A reading of fundamental rights and duties in the Constitution of India reveals that they constitute the human rights charter in India. The judiciary, the major protective and enforcement machinery, is very active in protecting human rights. Judicial activism in this field has added new dimensions to human rights jurisprudence. There are a number of cases where courts apply the provisions of the international conventions to fill the gaps in legislation. The apex court has also ventured to apply international convention even where there was no legislation in the area. Thus the judiciary has been directly implementing international conventions at the national level. This course aims at familiarising students with the judicial activism in protecting human rights and enables them to evaluate the adequacy of the methods of enforcement.

1. History and development of Human Rights in Indian Constitution
 - i. Constitutional Philosophy – Preamble
 - ii. Fundamental Rights : History of inclusion of fundamental rights in the constitution of India and their development after words
 - iii. Directive Principles of State Policy : History of inclusion of directive principles of state policy and their development afterwards
 - iv. Fundamental Duties
2. Judicial activism and Development of Human Rights Jurisprudence
3. Enforcement of Human Rights
 1. Formal enforcement mechanisms
 2. Role of Supreme Court
 3. Role of High Courts
 4. Role of Civil and Criminal Courts
 5. Role of NHRC and State Human Rights Commissions
 6. Statutory Tribunals
 7. Special Courts
4. Implementation of International Human Rights norms and standards in Indian domestic law.

Paper – IV

Human Rights of Disadvantaged Groups : Women, Children, Elderly Persons and Refugee

Objectives of the course

Human rights are the rights of all human beings. Violation of these rights is human rights violations. Due to frequent violations to particular groups in disadvantageous positions, new categories of human rights have emerged. These groups are of people such as women, children, prisoners and dalits. Violation of human rights of these groups is of great concern of every nation today. The officials of the state like the police force commit such violations. This is only an illustration. There are several other categories of violations. The two world wars had had enough of lessons to teach. But the present scenario shows that the nations have not learnt any lesson wars continue to be there. The International Humanitarian Law aims at humanising war though war itself is inhuman. Human rights do have value only in peace time. War is the negation of all human rights. Though the United Nations Charter does not permit war, it has shown the wisdom to regulate the war if one occurs.

War is one of the factors which creates the problem of refugees. There have been some endeavours on the part of the international community to protect the interests of refugees. But due to political interference, the formulation of the definition of the term 'refugee' in the 'Convention relating to the status of refugees' has been such that it helps the developed countries to shirk the responsibility towards the refugees leaving the burden to the developing countries.

This course intends to equip the students with the awareness of the various problems of refugees and to inspire them to critically evaluate the international conventions and national legislation

Science, Technology and Human Rights

Objectives of the course

We live in an era of scientific development. The alarming rate of development in biotechnology calls for drastic change in the law. Many concepts and terms have to be re-defined. The development in information technology poses serious problems and challenges. The rapid changes made by science and technology will have to be reflected in law to make it meaningful and realistic in the modern era. This course is intended to make students conscious of various legal problems arising due to developments in such areas as biotechnology and information technology and to identify the changes needed in the law.

Syllabus

- 1. Interrelationship of Science, Technology and Human Rights
- 2. Implication of Development of Science and Technology on Human Rights
 - a. Rights to environment in the development of science and technology
 - b. Right to development in the advancement of science and technology
 - c. Right to human health and impact of developments in medical sciences.

3. Medicine and the Law
